DINE & DO GOOD

TV newscaster Bob Woodruff's charity for veterans

Since 2014, the Bob Woodruff Foundation, cofounded by the award-winning ABC News reporter to support veterans and their families, has been producing Dine Out for Heroes, an initiative in conjunction with New York Comedy Festival's Stand Up for Heroes fundraising concert. Restaurants in the city are asked to donate $1 per every diner on Veteran's Day (Nov. 11): Money raised funds programs for returning soldiers and their loved ones. "We owe it to them to recognize their sacrifices and to empower them to succeed," says Woodruff, who, while reporting in Iraq in 2006, sustained a brain injury, which is what motivated him and his wife, Lee, to seek ways to give back to the military community. Dine Out for Heroes is produced with restaurateurs Penny and Peter Glazier of Glazier Works and with New York Comedy Festival founders Caroline Hirsch and Andrew Fox.—Sonia Weiser

Dine Out for Heroes Here!

Butter

Food Network's Alex Guarnaschelli helps this Midtown restaurant, where finely plated dishes and an extensive wine list extend far beyond your average American fare.

Michael Jordan's The Steak House N.Y.C.

The Glaziers' Grand Central Terminal steak house, on the balcony of the main concourse, offers juicy steaks to diners and great viewing of the crowds below.

The Lambs Club

Tucked inside Midtown's Chatwal Hotel, the award-winning restaurant serves up seasonal American cuisine for breakfast, lunch and dinner. Enjoy live entertainment in the bar.
